Down the Mountain and Into the Wilderness

I wonder if you noticed that we hear the voice of God in the Transfiguration just as we heard it on the banks of the Jordan when Jesus was baptized. As you remember, Jesus went from the river into the wilderness to be tested by Satan, the great liar. The lesson is repeated at this time of year as we walk down the mountain with the disciples, post transfiguration, into the events surrounding the betrayal, the mock trial, the crucifixion of Our Lord. One person said it best when they said we have to go through Good Friday to get to Easter Sunday. Jesus walks with us into the world which tests our patience, our faith and all we have been taught about righteousness, in other words, the right things God expects of us. We could think of our everyday life as a type of wilderness, where the things that sustain our spiritual life are often forgotten and must be recovered. We are often lured into the shade offered by systemic injustices. We seek water and food in places that threaten our well being. We are baked by the heat of social pressures. We are assaulted by temptations and distracted by the lies of the tempter on a daily basis. This is one of the reasons we observe Lent. The practices recommended for us are things like giving to the poor and focusing on our relationship with one another (looking out). We are also called back to prayer and feasting on God's word (looking in). Our meditation and prayers may bring us joy and peace as well as confession and repentance. Together, they bring us back into line with the ways of the One who has gone before us. May we follow Jesus into the wilderness knowing we are never lost when we go with him. He has never lost us or left us. We can rest in this knowledge as we step out into new wildernesses. As we go, may we be more aware of God's presence and delight in our obedience as we move forward together.

Pastor Phyllis

The COVID-19 Community Level is currently listed as LOW for Augusta County. The State Health Department recommends: Wear a mask indoors in public and on public transportation. Stay up to date with COVID-19 vaccines. Get tested if you have symptoms. If you are at high risk for severe illness, consider taking additional precautions. All are encouraged to continue to wear masks as desired but are not required. Masks will continue to be offered as a sign of hospitality so that all may feel safe, comfortable and welcome in this place of worship. May God continue to heal, protect and strengthen us as a community of faith so that all may know God's love.
